

COMPLETION OF CITY BUSINESS PROJECTS NEAR

Indiana Gas and Water to Move into New Remodelled
Office Monday.

Several business expansion and remodelling projects here are nearing completion and Indiana Gas and Water company has announced that it will open its new offices Monday at 546 Washington street.

Indiana Gas and Water company will move its offices this weekend from 643 Washington street in the Charlotte building to the southwest corner of Sixth and Washington streets. The new location was formerly the offices of Gordon G. Miller insurance agency.

The new quarters have been remodelled and redecorated to include a large sales display area, general offices, private office, storage and restrooms.

Better Facilities.

"The new office will provide us with better facilities to handle more efficiently the needs of our customers and give us as much display space as we formerly had in our main office room," said William W. O'Laughlin, local manager for the company.

The rooms have been painted in contrasting shades of green, a new composition tile floor has been put down and a new ceiling installed. The new lighting has not been completed and will be finished after the offices are put into use, Mr. O'Laughlin said. New office equipment also has been ordered.
